

Tari Garner

Retired Teacher

Outdoor Adventure Coordinator at Outdoors Tomorrow Foundation
Kansas City, MO

Tari has devoted more than 40 years to advancing physical education and adapted physical education across all levels, from elementary to university. She holds National Board and CAPE certifications and was named 2013 Central District Teacher of the Year. Tari has served as President of MOSHAPE and Central District SHAPE America, holding numerous leadership roles throughout her career.

Tari's expertise has been recognized nationally, including service on the National Board's physical education standards revision committee in Washington D.C., and through conducting professional development and teacher training programs across the country. Currently, she is the Outdoor Adventure Coordinator for the Outdoors Tomorrow Foundation and serves as a SHAPE America Board Member, finance committee member, and liaison to the Physical Activity and Professional Preparation Councils. Tari is a passionate advocate for inclusive, high-quality health and physical education, ensuring equitable opportunities for all students.